HOPF BUYS THOMAS SHOP FROM W. H. THOMAS

The Thomas Shop, one of the finest ladies ready-to-wear stores in the state of Oregon, has changed hands, according to an announcement made today. The store has been sold by its chief owner, W. H. Thomas, of Portland, to C. E. Hopf, proprietor of Hopf's Upstairs Shop.

The deal will mean the elimination of one of Pendleton's stores, Mr. Hopf states. Both stores will be closed tomorrow and the stock of garments from the upstairs shop will be merged with the stock of the first floor store. Then a special sale will start Wednesday.

Mr. Thomas declared this morning that he will confine his efforts chiefly to Portland in the future. Hopf, who has been in Pendleton eight years, opened the Thomas Shop for Mr. Thomas and was manager of the store here until Mr. Thomas entered the service during the war. Then Hopf purchased the upstairs shop and has since been in business for himself.

The Campbell millinery shop owned by Mrs. Rose Campbell and Mrs. Bertha Turner, will retain its present floor space in the Thomas Shop. The store in the future will be known as Hopf's store, according to the new proprietor.

NOTICE! Both stocks are combined in one for disposal at Hopf's new location---The Thomas Shop
